Dear Parishioners,

Over the course of the next few weeks, I would like to dedicate my column to talking about finances related to Christ our Hope. I will explain some of the terminology and try to simplify some of the common questions that have come up since I came in February.

When we look at finances for a parish, there is much more to understand than meets the eye. Aside from payroll and office expenses, there is much more that goes into keeping a parish financially sound. Over the last few months since I have arrived, we have been making progress at paying our diocesan assessment bills. These bills are a necessity for us to keep up to date. Assessment bills encompass property Insurance for the fifteen buildings throughout our three campuses, Catholic Schools, and the Clerical & Administrative funds Assessments, pension funds, and certain Diocesan collections such as Respect life, and Seminary.

Because we are part of a "group policy" this makes things much cheaper than if we had to find our own insurance. That does not diminish the fact that this is still a major expense. Toward the end of this month, I will have a breakdown of where we stand financially and what we need to work on.

With many of our buildings close to or over 100 years old, you can understand that there is much maintenance and upkeep that goes into each location. But with many buildings, things must be prioritized both financially and practically.

A big thank you to Prestige Roofing who replaced the roof on the Rectory porch which has been an issue for many years. The roof at St Patrick's will eventually need to be replaced which the Buildings and Grounds committee and myself are working on finalizing very soon. Please stay tuned to how you can help with these matters so that we can continue to keep the buildings of Christ our Hope Parish beautiful.

God Bless,
Fr Matt Rawson
