Dear Parishioners,

Last week in the column I explained the introductory Rites of the Mass which include the Opening Hymn, the Sign of the Cross, the Penitential Act, Gloria, and the Opening Prayer (Collect). These all come to culmination with the opening prayer which should call us to prayer. There is a moment of silence and then we open with a prayer which guides and opens the Liturgy. At this point we transition into the Liturgy of the Word. During this section of the Mass, we hear readings from Sacred Scripture from both the New and Old Testament. We also hear between the first and second reading a Responsorial Psalm from the Book of Psalms. After we hear the first and second Reading, and the Psalm, we listen to the Gospel from either Matthew, Mark, Luke, or John. These are the four Gospel accounts the Catholic Church uses throughout the Liturgical Year. After this, we listen to the Homily, then pray as one family, the Creed. Following the Creed, we pray for the Church Universal in the Prayer of the Faithful. These include everything from praying for the Pope, leaders of the Church and Country, those who are sick, those who have died, and those for whom the Mass is offered.

When we pray the Creed how often do we just say the words and move on? Have you ever wondered where the Creed came from or how it came about? It is not something that was just created, we don't hear it directly from Scripture, so where did it come from? Over the last two thousand years, answers were needed to questions regarding what the Church believed. These often were corrections or clarifications to heresies that occurred in the early Church. History tells us that the Council of Constantinople in the year 381 AD formulated the beliefs proclaimed by the Council of Nicaea in 325 AD. The Nicene Creed found its way into the weekly liturgy between the fifth and the eleventh centuries. It is a beautiful tradition to see how the Creed has found its way into our liturgy, why we pray it, and what it means to us. The purpose of the Creed is to express with conviction the heart of what we believe. It doesn't include Catholic issues the media like to chew on: celibacy, all-male leadership, and the Church's positions on morality. Some elements of Catholic life have changed over the years but the Creed remains the same. This week let us take to hear the beliefs that we pray in the Creed each week.

God Bless,
Fr. Matt Rawson
