Dear Parishioners,

Mark 12:28-34 presents a pivotal moment in the Gospel of Mark, where Jesus engages in a profound dialogue with a scribe regarding the greatest commandment. This passage encapsulates the essence of Jesus' teaching and highlights the centrality of love in the Jewish faith. The scribe, recognizing Jesus' wisdom, asks Him which commandment is the most important. Jesus responds by quoting the Shema from Deuteronomy 6:4-5: "Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one. Love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength." This commandment emphasizes total devotion to God, encompassing every aspect of a person's being—emotional, spiritual, intellectual, and physical. It underscores the idea that love for God is not merely an obligation but a total commitment and relationship.

Jesus continues by adding a second commandment from Leviticus 19:18: "Love your neighbor as yourself." This addition reveals the interconnectedness of love for God and love for others. It suggests that genuine love for God naturally extends to loving one's neighbor, thereby reinforcing the ethical dimensions of faith. The two commandments together form a comprehensive framework for understanding the moral life within the Jewish tradition and, by extension, the Christian faith. The scribe acknowledges the truth of Jesus' response, affirming that love surpasses all burnt offerings and sacrifices. Jesus, recognizing the scribe's understanding, tells him that he is not far from the kingdom of God. This statement indicates that grasping the essence of love—both for God and for others—brings one closer to divine truth and fulfillment. Mark 12:28b-34 emphasizes the foundational role of love in religious life, serving as a call to action for believers to embody love in their relationship with God and one another. It challenges the faithful to prioritize love as the highest commandment, shaping their lives in accordance with this divine principle.

God Bless,
Fr. Matt
